

You are invited to attend:
Forest Conservation Options and Alternative Revenue Sources Workshop

Most small woodland owners are interested in protecting their forest land for future generations. However, rural landowners are facing a perfect storm of rising real estate values and property taxes combined with declining timber prices. These factors are making it increasingly difficult for landowners to afford to maintain undeveloped land.

Fortunately many opportunities exist for landowners to generate revenue from the conservation values of their land while decreasing management costs and tax burdens. The purpose of this workshop is to explore voluntary options that small woodland owners can use to enhance the value of their forestland while generating residual income and reducing landowner tax liability.

Topics will include

- Selling Carbon Credits
- Conservation Easements
- Open space and current use taxation
- State and federal conservation and financial assistance programs
- Forest certification

Friday October 8th, 1-5:00pm
Curry County OSU Extension
Building, 29390 Ellensburg Rd, Gold
Beach

Sponsored by

For more information contact Jake Robinson

541 941 1822 jake@nnerg.org

Key Speakers

Jerry Becker Becker Ecoforestry and Elk River Land Trust

Tom Purvis National Resource Conservation Service

Jake Robinson Northwest Natural Resource Group

Registration Form for Conservation Options Workshop Oct 8th

Name:

Address:

Phone: _____ E-mail _____

Registration: # attending ____ x $20 = $ _____

How did you hear about this workshop? _____

To register, mail form to:

NNRG, PO Box 1067, Port Townsend, WA 98368